Office interior design can tell without words about the company, its management and team, character and corporate culture.

Without exaggeration, the office is the face of the company, which attracts the attention of both customers and partners.

Office

design

The modern office is not just a place to work. Considering how much time we spend in the office, the feeling of comfort is extremely important. This is facilitated by a well-thought-out layout of the room, comfortable office furniture, as well as proper functional zoning.

Cabinet type office

The design of a classic or cabinet-type office involves the design of each individual room, depending on its functional purpose.

The interior design uses a common style, color scheme and design materials.

Open type office

Open yew office "Open space" is a very popular office space format. Open space and lack of partitions contributes to productive teamwork.

Open space makes it possible to effectively zone the premises and make the most of every square meter of space.

Executive Office Design

The heart and soul of any office, the holy of holies and the face of the company - the manager's office - should characterize its owner and the company as businesslike, self-confident, firmly standing companions and partners.

When choosing a style, items are selected in such a way as to emphasize the qualities of the leader and the company.

Head's Office

Meeting room design

Business meetings are held in the negotiation room, important decisions are made that bring success to the company.

Negotiators should feel comfortable in the room, and for this, the best office furniture is needed, which will create comfort and will meet all the design, but also the scale of the room.

Materials and decor

When choosing furniture and finishing materials, you should stick to a restrained color scheme. Particular attention should be paid to the strength of the floor covering.

This room should not only be furnished with comfortable chairs/armchairs and a large table, but also equipped with the necessary equipment.

CHOOSING YOUR HOME

You can decorate the interior with the help of various plants (for example, decorative citrus trees and shrubs are perfect), in addition, they will also help purify the air in the premises.

Also, paintings, vases, and wall clocks will help transform the atmosphere of the space.

The design of the office greatly affects the overall image of the company. The interior should be restrained and, most importantly, comfortable.

Thus, it is possible to create a business atmosphere that contributes to the efficiency of the work process.

The normal rhythm of work involves periods of mental tension and relaxation. It is better to place a recreation area away from the offices of managers.

Toilet for the office

An office bathroom is not a place for wide dressing tables. All items should be comfortable and useful. For the proper organization of the bathroom does not need to spend a lot of time and effort. In the toilet room, each person can put himself in order, fix his hair, etc.
